EASTER SUNDAY
“The Rock!”
(Mark 16:1-8)

Very early on the first day of the week, when the sun had risen, the _____ went to the tomb.

The women looked up and saw the _____ which was very large, had already been _____ back!

A troupe of ladies in our story, confront a huge _____!

The Rock was a _____ of death’s relentless, stubborn pursuit of _____.

Despite predictions of a day of _____ when the enemy shall have been defeated, death always seems to _____!

From death, from the rock, there is no _____!

The Rock’s defeat renders death more a _____ than a huge _____!

In spite of that victory, we are still _____ in the Rock’s grip!

Huge rocks do have a “_____ permanence” about them when we look at the Rock with _____ eyes!

The horrible rock of death is now but a _____ of Christ’s _____!

He asks us to let go of the stone of _____ and embrace a life of _____!

He asks us to let go of the stone of _____ and embrace a life of _____!

He asks us to let go of the stone of _____ and embrace a life of _____!

He asks us to let go of the stone of _____ and embrace a life of _____!

If God can raise Jesus from the dead, He can also _____ us to let go of the _____ that are weighing us down!

Philippians 3:10 – “I want to know Christ and the power of his resurrection.”

Though the stone that holds you, binds you all alone....
HE is your HOPE!

Christ still moves stones!!
